

About Cardno

Cardno is a leader in delivering scientific and sustainable environmental services for both the public and private sectors in the US and abroad. We work to restore the physical and natural environment, improve ecological and human health, and positively impact the lives of our employees and our communities.

Cardno provides a wide range of integrated environmental, engineering, infrastructure, scientific consulting, and field services to support the diverse needs of our clients.

LOCAL EXPERTISE ACROSS THE AMERICAS AND AROUND THE WORLD

Our team of experienced professionals provide clients with best-in-class environmental, infrastructure, and scientific solutions from more than 100 offices across the Americas, strategically located near our client's most demanding needs. We pride ourselves on our commitment to quality and value, and we excel in providing exceptional solutions as we plan, design, and manage projects.

Our environmental experts include ecologists, biologists, geologists, toxicologists, engineers, economists, and cultural resources professionals, among professionals in many other environmental disciplines.

Our broad service areas include:

- > Assessment and Remediation;
- > Health Sciences / Human Health Impact Assessment;
- > Natural Resources; and
- > Restoration Services.

Cardno can support any size project, from providing local expertise to broader national or global practice and service leadership. In addition to local expertise, our global professionals collaborate to share diverse knowledge and perspectives that allow us to provide innovative and sustainable solutions that deliver lasting value.

INDUSTRY RECOGNITION

By working with new clients every day and expanding relationships with our existing clients, we have become a recognized leader within the industry. In recent years, Cardno has continually ranked in multiple categories as a Top firm in Engineering News-Record's annual lists.

Our proven track record as an environmental service provider combined with our understanding of resources, regulatory needs, and stakeholders' perspectives helps us stand apart.
