

Highland Technical Services is a full service environmental and geosciences consulting firm with extensive experience in anticipating, identifying and addressing a wide range of concerns for clients across the United States.

Clients we've served range from foundries, hazardous waste generators and solid waste landfills, to lending institutions, underground storage tank owners and local government entities.

Highland Technical Services' staff of professionals is licensed to practice geology in the states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee, and engineering in states across the southeast.

Our common-sense approach is based on the firm's continuing commitment to implementing the most practical, ethical and cost-effective, solution for each project.
